features.Paris (AFP) - France faces a severe situation, "a failing state" which must now be considered a "zone of war", as the government declares a state of emergency as a result of the jihadist threat, Foreign Minister Laurent Fabius said Tuesday. "A state of emergency is not a solution to everything... but it is a response to a failing state," Fabius said in a statement. "I see a failing state that is becoming more violent, that is a far greater threat," he added. "The terrorist threat is today a failing state, an 'Islamic State' which is becoming more and more organised, more brutal, more funded, more ambitious." "As far as the Islamic State is concerned, France and Europe as a whole are its soft underbelly," the minister said. "It wants to expand its control and gain recruits by taking advantage of social exclusion," he added. "In order to preserve our way of life, Europe needs to defend itself. And this is what we are doing," he 82157476af
